OSU Student Research Scholarship

Each year Payne County Audubon awards two $1000 scholarships to deserving Oklahoma State University students in the natural sciences. These scholarships have enabled students to conduct research in a variety of worthy areas, including a census of Cerulean Warbler populations in Oklahoma; effects of mesocarnivores on success of ground-nesting birds; natural history of collared lizards; effects of West Nile Virus on populations of urban-dwelling American Crows; a study of Cimarron County's Swainson's, Red-tailed, and Ferruginous hawks.
